THE STAFF of the 1934 Kaleidoscope is presenting this Annual with one objective — to keep alive the memory of your college days. This objective has been earnestly and diligently sought, and, we hope, successfully achieved by picture, word and sketch. As to whether we have attained our purpose, you alone are to judge. We have done our best, and if this Annual in any degree will help you to remember with joy the days spent at Hampden-Sydney, the Staff will feel more than compensated for its effort and the work will not have been in vain. » » »

Dedication

IN AFFECTIONATE MEMORY OF

ASA DUPUY WATKINS

EDUCATOR, CLERGYMAN, AND ARTIST

THIS VOLUME IS INSCRIBED

Born of forbears, who among these hills established this seat of learning;
Nurtured in the finest traditions of the Old South, to which he clung with a tenacity naught could sever;
Developed into the manhood, typical of a race which has enriched this Commonwealth and made America mighty;
True to the faith of his fathers, through the various vicissitudes and bitter trials of life;
Faithful to every trust, no matter how modest;
Conscientious in every duty, even the most trivial;
Uncompromising in the defence of every principle;
Beloved by all who crossed his path;
Sensitive to the beauty of holiness, and the holiness of beauty;
Translated from the struggle, called life, to the Glory of Heaven;
His reward abides
In the hearts, minds, souls, faith and character of a thousand stalwart men, once his students;
Whom, being poor, he made rich;
Whom, being rich, he made strong, and
To whom he, being silent, yet speaketh.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

THE closing chapter of the History of the Class of '34 presents a fitting conclusion to a full and varied story writ deep upon the memory of every man who has been so privileged as to partake of the abundant experiences offered to her members.

From the very first, the class was recognized as one of unusual mental endowment. The Record of January, 1931 states, "Wise heads may shake, but figures seem to prove that this is one of the best freshman classes we have had for some time." This was deduced from the high rating of the class in the intelligence test.

The Class of '34, however, would have little claim to speak of its intellectual endowment had it not used its natural gifts to advantage and applied its capabilities in scholarship and activities. That this has actually been the case throughout its history is evidenced by the fact that the standing in the class room has been consistently high and that a striking percentage have attained either the first or second honor roll.*

But this attainment in scholastic and literary pursuits has never meant the sacrifice of eminence in other fields. Publications, sports, organizations—in all she has sent forth her full quota, and more, of leaders and constituents.

But perhaps the most noteworthy pages of her History would tell of the beneficial changes which the Class of '34 largely inaugurated and carried to completion. Its members began the system of athletic insurance, which has already been used successfully for two sessions; they carried through the move to save the amount which had needlessly been spent for breakage and repairs in dormitories and to donate this amount to the Athletic Association; they partially brought about the removal of the drinking clause from the constitution of the Student Council, a step which strengthens the honor code and the administration of authority in the matter of the drinking problem.

The portion of our History which would touch a vibrant chord in the heart of every member of the Class of '34 would tell of the passing of those who have seemed to be members with us, those whom most of us knew for a time in the class room, and whom all of us had learned to revere and honor—Dr. Watkins, a living symbol of lofty ideals. It is fitting that the Class of '34, who had been with him long enough to know and love him intimately, should go from the portals of Hampden-Sydney as the Watkins' Memorial Bell Tower is completed and dedicated. And Dr. Bagby—scholar, scientist, and friend—there is a memorial built into the lives of those who soon after his departure also leave these halls and walkways which he so loved for more than forty years.

Such in the barest outline would be the closing chapter of our History. It cannot even suggest the halcyon memories—vivid, dear, lasting—engraved on the hearts of those who view with wistful eye the years spent at Hampden-Sydney.

PETER G. COSBY, Historian.

*—Even as we go to press, news is received from the Dean's office that the Class of '34 has made a higher average to February, 1934, than any other Senior Class in the history of the College.

CLASS HISTORY OF '35

THERE were one hundred and twenty-five very abashed and green freshmen who matriculated in early September. One could see them hugging trunks and obediently assisting all who asked their services. Despite the depression we were the largest freshman class to assemble on the "Hill"; we were the largest number of embryo "Who's Who" ever collected in a group.

Possibly the most enjoyable times of our school life we spent in "bull sessions." It wasn't long until the upperclassmen began to induct us into these conferences, for, you know, all of the idiosyncrasies of the professors, the uprisings of former classes, the traditions of the school, and so on, must be explained to the newcomers. We, as a group, enjoyed these "sessions" with the exception of one part of them—the punctuation.

Spring found us storming Seminary with the cries of "Shave his head, shave four heads!" This was not caused by the ambition of the class of '35 to become barbers, but because some upperclassmen had put our numerals down and necessitated our being campused for the misdemeanor. Due to some confusion as to who was truthful and who was not, we were unable to enjoy the function of barbers. The occasion, however, will long be remembered.

In the session of 1932-'33 a few '35's had dropped by the wayside, but even then we were the largest sophomore class ever at Hampden-Sydney. Early in the fall we re-elected the officers of our freshman year. They were: Jack Humphries, President; Tom Young, Vice-President; and Royston Jester, Secretary-Treasurer.

In the sports the Class of '35 contributed such men as Ferry, Humphries, Young, Vest, Martin, Daughtrey, and many others who bring just fame to the class.

In the elections for the present year Jack Humphries and Tom Young were re-elected to their former offices while John L. Armstrong was chosen for Secretary-Treasurer. These officers are the representatives of the largest Junior class in the history of Hampden-Sydney. There is little doubt that next year we will also be the largest Senior class, making the four years a mark to be shot at by the new classes. But, with quantity, we hope in the years to come it can be said that our quality is equal to our former quantity. If I may be allowed the indiscretion of prophecy, I should say that we will have this said of us.

THE eternal and baffling question, "Why go to college?" was promptly and precisely answered for the Class of '36 in the following words: "To serve the sophomores and upperclassmen and, if there is any time left, to study." This answer seemed rather questionable for several months, but when September of 1933 rolled around, the Class of '36 took an entirely different attitude and heartily agreed with this conclusion.

This intrepid class possesses many illustrious members. At its outset the choice of a president was baffling, since there were so many who, seemingly, should serve in this capacity. Especially was there a question when it came to choosing between two Bills—Bill Price and Bill Formwalt. This class, as usual, chose the most intelligent course, electing Price as the leader the first year and Formwalt for the second year.

All was not peaceful—as yet. Three times were numerals scattered around the campus and three times were the freshmen forced to submit to the law—"put on campus." At this time there were the rumblings of a rebellion. The class met in the three Odgen brothers' room and signed a declaration of independence, but to no avail. Two weeks of campus remained.

The Class of '36 possesses its notables in every branch of endeavor—on the athletic field, in the Students' Christian Association, in social life, on college publications—everywhere one goes he cannot fail to recognize the leadership shown by this class. A few have failed to return, a few more will drop out before the end. However, there are yet two years. What will they bring forth? Nobody knows, but if present conditions continue, this class will contribute to Hampden-Sydney some of the greatest leaders ever rendered to the ranks of the "Small College Great."

THE KALEIDOSCOPE

The 1934 KALEIDOSCOPE introduces a series of innovations which we hope you enjoy and appreciate. The volume in itself represents the result of many hours of careful preparation. We hope that it represents to you Hampden-Sydney as it existed for you in every day life.

Striving to insert a more personal touch, we have used many snap-shots, and with the spirit of progress we have adopted a modernistic motif. We sincerely hope that the 1934 volume fulfills the aim of the staff and your expectations. We feel sure that it marks a milestone on the highway of progress.

THE KALEIDOSCOPE

The Business Staff of the 1934 KALEIDOSCOPE has worked faithfully and consistently for the past year. The year has witnessed considerable uncertainty in the business world that has in turn made the Staff work harder to achieve its goal. The work has little of the glory that other activities on the campus enjoy, but it is valuable experience and the men are repaid in a measure. As a parting gesture of appreciation for their endeavors, this page is devoted to serve as a reminder that the Staff is due a share in whatever glory this book may deserve.

THE HAMPDEN-SYDNEY TIGER

The 1933-34 Tiger introduced many new changes in general make up and appearance, all for great improvement. The most noted change was in the size which was increased to six columns in comparison with five of former years. A class of Journalism was innovated for the advancement of the new members of the staff who had had no former newspaper experience. This work was facilitated the more easily by the addition of a Tiger office, fully equipped and with every convenience. There was an increased interest in newspaper work and the success of the paper is largely due to the staff.

Through sustained and consistent efforts the Tiger made rapid strides of progress during the past year. The advertising was increased to a noteworthy degree and the circulation also was increased to a remarkable extent, not only by exchange but also by subscription. The Tiger had a new printer, The Farmville Herald, to whom is due no little amount of credit for assisting in making the revised Tiger the interesting paper that it was. 1933-'34 is one of the most successful years in the history of the Hampden-Sydney Tiger.

THE HAMPDEN-SYDNEY MAGAZINE

The 1933-1934 Magazine, entering its fifty-first year of publication, was well supported by a competent staff of writers.

An attractive cover was designed which added much to the attractiveness of the publication. Other minor changes were made which improved the general make-up of the Magazine.

The staff endeavored to encourage writing on the part of the student body as a whole. A poetry prize was offered by Sphinx chapter of Sigma Upsilon, national literary fraternity. The Trustees' medals were offered for the best article submitted by a member of the Freshman-Sophomore and Junior-Senior classes.

THE HAMPDEN-SYDNEY MAGAZINE

The business staffs of college publications are legion when the country's colleges are considered, but of the three staffs at Hampden-Sydney, the staff of the Magazine is perhaps the least known. Few men, if you asked at random, could answer correctly a query as to the personnel of the Business Staff of the Magazine. Nevertheless, "Bill" Spotswood and his assistants have capably taken care of this most essential phase of the publication. Their job has called for much work without the much-sought vanity-balm—publicity. They may well be proud of their achievements in helping to present the four issues of the Magazine.

RESUME OF THE 1933 SEASON

The elements intervened to cancel the Tiger's opening game with the Langley Field Airmen at the airport near Hampton.

The following week-end, the Tigers were held to a 7-7 tie by the University of Virginia Cavaliers on the Jeffersonians gridiron. Jack Humphries, Bill Daughtrey, and "Limpv" White ran through the Cavaliers at will. Sam McLaughlin played splendidly in the line.

Birch Douglass led the Tiger backs as they marched to a 19-0 victory over Guilford's Tar Heels on Death Valley. Formwalt and Ferry were perhaps the outstanding men in the line that showed up well at all points.

The fleet Tiger backs ran through the American

U. eleven in Richmond under the floodlights to win, 32-0. Douglass, Daughtrey, and Humphries scampered over the white markers frequently.

A long trip to Wytheville led to the first disaster of the season, when the Emory and Henry Wasps took a one-touchdown lead early in the game and held it until the final gun, the 7-0 score remaining. Johnny Ferry, captain-elect of the 1934 team, played a splendid game at end. Bill Daughtrey starred in the backfield.

Playing in Lynchburg the next week-end, the Bengals failed to tally in a scoreless fray with the Johnnies of St. Johns. Twenty first downs availed nothing and the scoreboard was unused. Willy

Moore, Formwalt, Humphries, and Captain Spotswood were outstanding for the Tigers.

The Roanoke Maroons came to the Tigers' lair and marred a Homecoming celebration by trouncing the home team, 12-0. The fine work of Ferry, McLaughlin, Spotswood, Price, and Douglass, leading their teammates, could not stem the Maroon Wave. A fine aerial attack, coupled with Patrone's fifty-eight-yard run, was responsible for the two-touchdown defeat.

"Limp" White's twenty-one-yard run was the longest of the day as the Tigers battled the Spiders of Richmond U. in Richmond on Armistice Day. Ferry, Young, Daughtrev, Price, McLaughlin, and Humphries shone for the losers as the Tigers went down, 13-0. A determined team of fighters showed a gallant spirit to hold the score low.

Blocking ten punts for a record, the Tigers pinned down the Bridgewater Eagles, 31-0. "Limpy" White, Humphries, and Daughtrey had an easy day afield with the Tiger forward wall clicking to open the way for them.

The season came to a thrilling close at Ashland on the twenty-fifth, when the Yellow Jackets wrested a 21-20 victory from the Tigers in the closing minutes of play. Captain Spotswood, in his final game, led the Tiger backs, Daughtrey and Humphries, in their efforts to garner a victory.

FORMWALT

The prospects in early fall for the 1933-'34 basketball season with only three lettermen, Douglass, Formwalt, and Rice, to form the nucleus of a team, seemed rather dubious. Formwalt's arm-injury, sustained in football, did not improve the situation. No captain was chosen because there were no senior lettermen. When actual workouts started, things began to look better. "Scotty" Crawford and Nelson Hix, seniors who had had experience on last year's varsity, gave promise of coming through; Hancock, Owen, Gardner, and Elder came up from last year's junior varsity, and Ebel, Downs, Bernier, and Bliss, freshmen, completed the varsity squad and work was begun with new hope.

RESUME OF 1933-'34 BASKETBALL

The Tigers dropped three tilts on a northern trip. American U., Delaware, and St. Johns took the measure of the invading Tigers who had beaten American U. at Death Valley. Playing Lynchburg in the Tiger's lair, the home team lost, 31-23, with Bill Formwalt scoring 17 points.

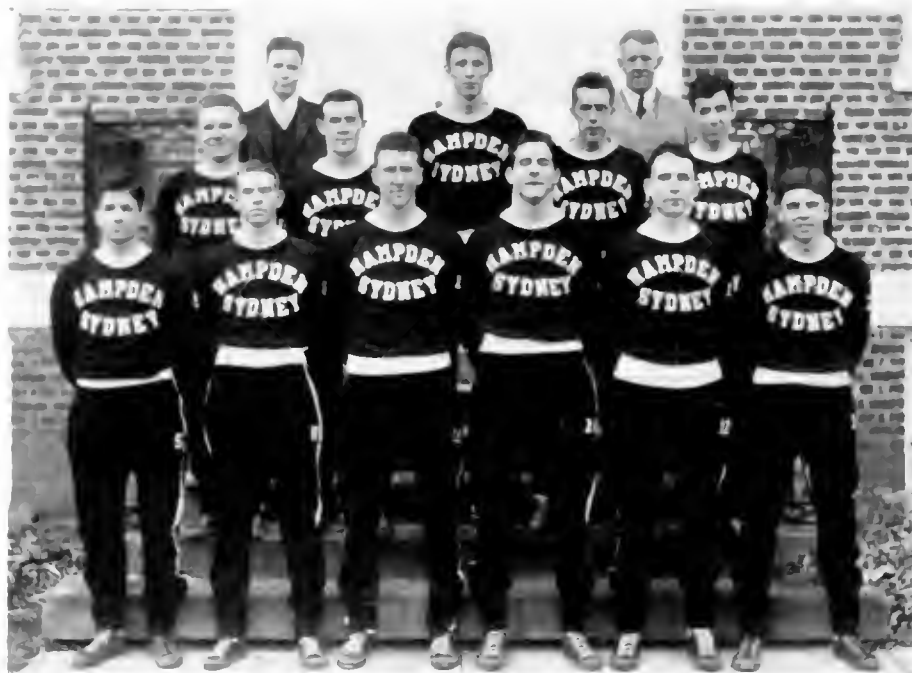

This game concluded the pre-exam. schedule. As we went to press, the prospects for the remainder of the season seemed to be good.

Resume of 1933

In every way the baseball season was a success. With the loss of only one conference, one state, and one out-of-state game, the Tiger team ended the season by being a championship ball club. Since he had almost an entire team of veterans back and several promising freshmen, Coach Bernier was mainly concerned with conditioning his team. Results show how well he succeeded.

Drexel Institute bowed to the Tigers in the opener, which was followed by two more victories before Poole, of the U. T. S., completely silenced the Tiger bats, winning a 6-1 decision. Hampden-Sydney came back strong and defeated the University of Delaware, Medical College of Virginia, University of Richmond, Roanoke, Bridgewater, and Randolph-Macon, winning twice from the last two.

Davidson came to Death Valley and bested the Tigers in a 3-2 pitchers' battle of twelve innings in the first game in May. The Red and Gray team swept all opposition aside until Roanoke won a 5-3 game late in the season. Eddie Mann, one of the Tiger key pitchers, turned back the Ma-rooms the following day, and Douglass and Ogden finished up the season with two 7-0 victories over Bridgewater.

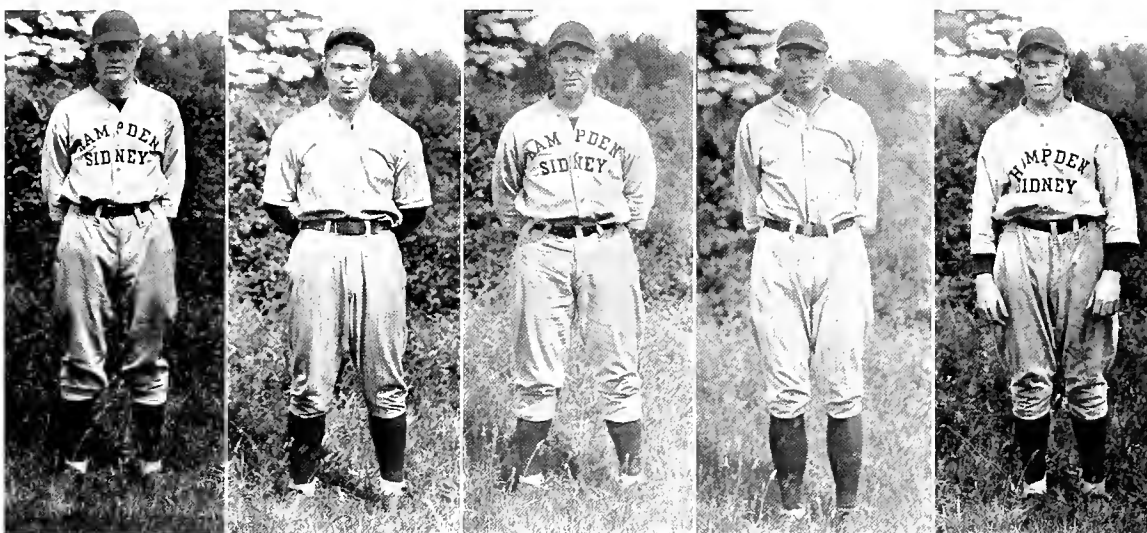

Humphries, Berryman, Douglass, Hardaway, and Moore led the Tigers at the bat as they amassed a total of 154 runs to the opponents' 79.

In the field the work of the entire team was splendid, of true championship calibre, as shown by the fact that three titles came to Hampden-Sydney with the Tigers leading in the conference, state, and general standing.

COACH SMITH

Quiet mannered, yet with the authority of experience, Coach H. E. Smith has borne himself during four years at Hampden-Sydney in a manner that commands respect of all who know him.

Resume of 1933

The Tiger cinder men were hosts to the Randolph-Macon Yellow Jackets in their first meet of the season, winning by the score of 71-55. Mac Owen, with two firsts, led the Tigers, closely followed by Captain Mullens, Kellam, and Formwalt—each with eight points. Charlie Ruff thrilled the spectators with a fine sprinting finish to win the two-mile event handily.

Trekking to Guilford the following week-end, Hampden-Sydney's harriers defeated the Tar Heels, 75-51. Kellam, Owen, and Mullens paced the Tigers in point making, with ten, nine, and eight points respectively. The Red and Gray men outclassed Guilford in the track events, taking six firsts and seven second places in eight events.

In the final meet of the year, Coach Smith's proteges were forced to accept a 71 2-3 - 54 1-3 defeat at the hands of the Lynchburg College trackmen in Lynchburg. The home team outclassed Hampden-Sydney in the field events with the exception of the shot-put. The Tigers more than held their own on the cinder path, however, to keep the meet in doubt until the final events.

Mullens, Owen, and Kellam led the Tigers through a successful season under the guidance of Coach Smith.

1933 VARSITY

WE can find no more fitting or proper conclusion to our survey of Athletics than a glimpse at the man whose infinite patience and understanding of boys has made him such an indispensable part of the Death Valley activities.

To Coach Charles A. Bernier's influence may be ascribed a large measure of those characteristics that set the Hampden-Sydney men apart. His determined preaching of the doctrine of fair-play has instilled in them a love of cleanliness that will follow them through life, not only in games, but also in their dealings with their fellows.

NORMAN ROCKWELL

24 Lord Kitchner Road
NEW ROCHELLE, NEW YORK

December 8, 1933

Mr. John G. Shirley,
Hampden-Sydney College,
Hampden-Sydney, Virginia.
Dear Mr. Shirley:

The photos arrived. I've judged several similar contests lately and I want to say that these are the best I have seen. Of course, it is very difficult to judge from photos as very often the girls themselves are far different—sometimes the most beautiful photographs the most poorly, but I have done my best and I hope the choice will be approved. I have marked the numbers in green crayon on the backs of the picture.

I certainly wish you the best of luck in your job as editor this year.

Sincerely,

Norman Rockwell

IN presenting this volume of the 1934 KALEIDOSCOPE, we would remind you that it was possible mainly through the medium of our advertisements. Therefore, we would ask that you patronize these advertisers.

We would also express our appreciation to those who have worked faithfully with us in the publishing of this book: The Benson Printing Company, the Lynchburg Engraving Company, and Dunbar and Daniel, Inc. We would sincerely thank Mr. R. G. Benson, Mr. M. L. Glover, and Mr. M. F. Dunbar for their ever-willing cooperation and help, and especially do we appreciate the unparalleled assistance and every aid rendered by Mr. W. A. Daniel.

Hampden-Sydney College

1776-1933

SHAKESPEARE says, "We are advertised by our loving friends"; and one of the largest advertisers in America, in speaking of the popularity of his goods, says, "There is a Reason."

HAMPDEN-SYDNEY is advertised most of all by its own student body; and surely there is a reason—in fact, many reasons:

ONE is that the atmosphere is a wholesome and a Christian one.

ANOTHER is that there is a hearty co-operation between students and faculty.

A THIRD is that at Hampden-Sydney a student has to earn what he gets; but he knows he will get what he earns.

A FOURTH is that the students recognize that a Hampden-Sydney diploma is one of quality, based on the fact that this College has entrance requirements which insure better preparation than the average.

A FIFTH is that Hampden-Sydney declines to allow any "short cuts" to a diploma.

The College wishes quality boys for quality work. If interested, write to THE REGISTRAR, Hampden-Sydney, Virginia.
